EGYPT GIVEN HOT REPROOF ON SUDANESE PROPAGANDA

Difficulties Due To Exaggerated Claims

BRITA N'S STAND

Sudan Government To Be Given Full Support

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 18.—A member of the Egyptian Legation called at the Foreign Office on Saturday and communicated the views of the Egyptian Government on the situation in the Sudan.

He was informed that the British Acting High Commissioner in Egypt has been authorised to inform the Egyptian Government that in view of the recent rioting at Atbara and Port Sudan His Majesty's Government warn the Egyptian Government very explicitly that His Majesty's Government regard themselves responsible for the maintenance of order in the Sudan and intend to support the Sudan Government in any steps they may deem necessary to preserve public security.

His Majesty's Government could only regard the recent action of the Railway Battalion as a direct result of the exaggerated Egyptian claims in respect of the Sudan and His Majesty's Government are, therefore, reinforcing the British garrison and have authorised the Government of the Sudan to remove from the Sudan the Railway Battalion and any other disaffected elements among the Egyptian troops. His Majesty's Government regret very strongly the inference conveyed by the Egyptian press that the British troops caused the disturbances in the Sudan or inflicted casualties at Atbara.

(Reuter's Service)

Alexandria, August 18.—Replying to the British protest against the inaccurate and misleading nature of the statement issued by the Egyptian Ministry reflecting its views on the events in the Sudan, the Egyptian Government deny any intention to embarrass the aim of the British and Egyptian Governments by alleged inaccuracies. Their recent communique emphasises their good intentions.

WOMAN STABBED BY HOODLUM IN CHAPEI ATTACK

Attempted Theft Of Clothing May Bring Death Of Victim

A Chinese woman, the wife of a carpenter residing in the French Concession, is in the Shantung Road Hospital in a critical condition as a result of knife wounds inflicted upon her by a loafer who attacked her and her husband outside the Settlement limits in Chapei Monday night.

The woman was brought to the Gordon Road Police Station shortly after 10 o'clock Monday night by her husband, Wzang Zeh-siang. Examination showed that the woman was suffering from a deep wound on the right side of the abdomen. The husband told the police that he, his wife and their two children were en route from Tsung Sz Village, Chapei, to their home, when a loafer halted them near Soochow Creek.

The loafer struck at the man with a short instrument and attempted to make off with a bundle of clothing which Wzang was carrying. The woman, however, raised an alarm, and then the loafer turned his attentions to her and struck out at her with a knife.

At the Shantung Road Hospital the woman was found to be suffering from a knife wound which had pierced the abdominal wall and another small wound on the right arm at the elbow. Her condition is likely to prove fatal as there is grave danger of peritonitis setting in.

The Chapei police have been informed regarding the matter.

BRITISH CONSUL-GENERAL GOING ON HOME LEAVE

Mr. Sidney Barton Entertained By Local Officials At Dinner Last Night

Mr. Sidney Barton, the British Consul-General, was the guest of honor at a dinner given yesterday at the Bureau of Foreign Affairs by General Ho Feng-lin, military governor of Shanghai and Mr. Hsu Yuan, Commissioner of Foreign Affairs. Consul-General Barton is leaving for England shortly and will be away for about six months.

It is understood that he will make a full report on the rendition of the Mixed Court in Shanghai while in London.

Other guests at the dinner last night were Taoyin Wang Kengting, Police Commissioner Lo Yung-chien, Customs Superintendent Yao Wenfu and Magistrate Shen Paochang of Shanghai City.

RUMORS OF WAR STIR POLICE TO RAIDS IN CHAPEI

Patrols Are Ordered To Keep Strict Look-Out For Suspects

A determined police round-up of all suspicious characters in Chapei has been ordered by Huh Sze-ling, chief of the detective branch of the Woosung and Shanghai Constabulary, acting on instructions from Col. Lu, chief of the constabulary, according to the local Chinese press.

The activities of the Chapei police at this time have their impetus in the many recent rumors of impending warfare between Chekiang and Kiangsu and Fokien, as a result of which it is believed that there has been an influx of armed men in the districts surrounding Shanghai.

Search parties have been organised by the Chapei police and all detectives have been instructed to patrol the roads after sunset and search any groups of men who congregate there.

Special attention is also to be paid the teashops, where the spreading of war rumors will be strictly forbidden.

Arrest Japanese For Carrying Arms

T. Kanda, a Japanese fireman on the Steamer Paris Maru, was arrested early Monday morning near the entrance to the O. S. K. Wharf when he attempted to bring ashore two automatic pistols and 200 rounds of ammunition. The arms were found on the man when he was searched by a police constable.

Kanda was arraigned in the Japanese Consular Court later in the day when the contraband arms were ordered confiscated.

POWERS AGREE TO TURN OVER LEGATION TO M. KARAKHAN

Note Is Sent Soviet By Japanese Minister

BOXER PROTOCOL

Russ Still Consider Themselves As Co-Signatory

(BY UNITED PRESS)

Peking, August 19.—M. Karakhan, Soviet ambassador to Peking, today refused to accept the covering note which accompanied the note of the Diplomatic Corps agreeing to the transfer of the former Russian Legation to the Soviet. The covering note expressed the insistence of the American Government that the action of the Diplomatic Corps did not imply American recognition of Soviet Russia.

The note referred to the Soviet Government as "the regime known as the Union of Socialistic Soviet Republics," to which M. Karakhan objected, saying that Russia recognises and is recognised by governments and not regimes.

M. Karakhan, in his reply to Mr. Yoshizawa, Japanese minister, who, as acting doyen of the Diplomatic Corps had addressed the note of the corps to the Soviet ambassador, expressed regret that Mr. Yoshizawa was compelled to accept the American commission to write such a reservation into the note regarding transfer of the legation, particularly at this time when Japan and Russia were negotiating with a view toward mutual recognition. He said that when the recognition came about, Russia would recognise the Japanese Government and not a capitalistic regime, and Japan, in turn, would recognise the Russian Government and not a Socialistic regime.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, August 18.—Mr. Yoshizawa, the Japanese Minister, this afternoon handed M. Karakhan the following note (copies of which were handed to the press at 6 o'clock this evening):

"On August 1 the senior representative of the Powers signatory to the protocol of 1901 laid a communication you addressed to him on July 26 before his colleagues (the diplomatic representatives of the said Powers), and informed them that in his conversation with you on July 24 you informed him that the Soviet Government considered itself still a co-signatory of the aforesaid Protocol.

"I am now requested by my colleagues to inform you that in view of the above circumstances and the consequences thereof, namely, that the Soviet Government enjoys all the rights, and is impressed with all the obligations of that Protocol and the Protocol of 1904 and also all the subsequent arrangements which bind all the co-signatories to the maintenance of the conventional status of the Diplomatic Quarter, the representatives of the signatory Powers have decided to hand over to Your Excellency the Russian Legation and the keys thereof, and have appointed the Netherlands Charge d'Affaires to represent them in this business.

"As to the intimation given by

U. S. Will Issue Visas To Students

Consul-General Cunningham has received instructions from the State Department that non-immigrant visas for temporary visit may be issued to bona fide students proceeding from Shanghai to recognised institutions of learning in the United States. It is necessary for the student to notify the Department by telegraph through the Consulate of his name and the college to which he is proceeding on his arrival in the United States.

This is very gratifying news, as it will enable these students who have selected their institutions of learning to proceed as soon as the evidence is produced which is necessary to secure a non-immigrant visa for temporary visit.

PISTOL BATTLE BRINGS ARREST OF BANDIT TRIO

French Police Take Robbers Into Custody After Spirited Fight

Police of the French Concession, in a spirited pistol battle in a Chinese lodging house at No. 2, Passage No. 22, Rue du Consulat, overpowered and took into custody three men, two of them armed with revolvers, as they were attempting to hold up the inmates of the house shortly before midnight Monday night.

One of the alleged bandits was wounded in the neck, and is now in a serious condition at the Shantung Road Hospital. A Chinese inmate of the house was also wounded by a stray shot, which struck him in the thigh. He, too, was removed to the Shantung Road Hospital. A fourth robber escaped.

The arrest of the men is a tribute to the efficiency of the patrol service which was recently instituted in the French Concession and under which foreign and Chinese detectives in plain clothes patrol the streets of the concession from 6 p.m. until 6 a.m.

The four robbers, who are thought to be Koreans, entered the lodging house at about 11:30 p.m. Three of them displayed pistols and demanded the keys to the safe. One of the inmates of the house, however, blew a police whistle. A Russian and a Chinese police constable, who were on patrol duty in Rue du Consulat at the time, heard the whistle and started for the scene.

Arriving at the house, the police officers were confronted by the four robbers, three of them armed. Despite the odds, however, the constables closed with the men.

In the meantime a call had been sent to the North Station, and an additional force of detectives and constables arrived. In the pistol battle which followed, three of the robbers were eventually overpowered and disarmed, after one of their number had been wounded. The fourth man who escaped, dropped his pistol in the passageway in the course of his flight.

At the French police headquarters last night it was said that detectives are now on the trail of the fourth member of the robber band, whom they expect to apprehend by tomorrow.

Class War In Canton In Arms Dispute; Laborers Aligned Against Capital

Widespread Movement Started Under Guise Of Supporting Government; Severance Of Relations With All Powers Except Germany And Soviet Urged

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, August 19—An official telegram from Canton says that, as a result of a general agreement between all the parties concerned, the Shameen strikers will resume work today. The Chinese police will send in their resignations through their representative.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hongkong, August 19.—A wireless message from the Senior Naval Officer at Canton states that the Shameen strikes has ended and that the men will return to work this afternoon.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Canton, August 10.—Students in Canton are unable to assist the committee in charge of the Shameen strike en masse in the work of agitating for a complete "Boycott" against the foreign concession, as all the schools are now closed for the summer holidays and will not be opened until early in September. However, the Young People's Division of the Kuomingtang Political Party, a large part of which is composed of students, has informally assured the committee in charge of the strike of its support.

The strike and "Boycott" are not so much anti-foreign as anti-British and anti-French. The offer of several students in Canton from the French Sacred Heart College and the British Holy Trinity College to assist the proposed "Boycott" movement, and the hesitation of the boys from the Canton Christian College and other American dominated missionary institutions to participate "the agitation, bear this out.

Persons closely connected with the present anti-British and anti-French movement in Shameen and outside Shameen are responsible for the information that the Canton Government in its indirect encouragement of the Shameen merchants has been duped by the advice of the several Russian and German advisers under Dr. Sun Yat-sen. The Germans are now excluded from Shameen, and their business establishments are confined to the large office buildings along the Bund. The Russians used to have a consulate building in Shameen, and the failure to find a responsible Russian representative in Canton a few years ago has resulted in its having gone to some other property owners. The Germans and Russians mostly live in Tungshan these days. For a time the Shameen strike was to have extended to Tungshan. It is said that the presence there of the Germans and Russians prevented that.

(Eastern News Agency)

Canton, August 16.—Labor organisations here, under the guise of supporting the Canton government in its detention of the shipment of arms brought in by the Norwegian Steamer Hav for the Merchants Volunteer Corps, have started a widespread movement which practically amounts to a direct split between labor and capital.

To further their cause, the laborers are taking advantage of the third outbreak of the strike at Shameen and have organised a Patriotic Society of the Union of Workmen's Organisations. Meetings are being held daily by leaders of the various organisations. Three major proposals are under discussion:

1. That, taking advantage of the opportunity presented now, a Workmen's Volunteer Corps be formed and that a portion of the arms and ammunition imported by the Merchants' Volunteer Corps and seized by the Canton Government be demanded of the Government.

2. That in case any complications occur between the Government and the Merchants' Volunteer Corps relative to the arms seizure, the Government be supported to the fullest extent.

3. That the strikers at Shameen be supported in order that the strike may be continued and its scope extended.

It will thus be seen that the strike at Shameen, which was first carried out in protest against the adoption by the Shameen Municipal Council of regulations restricting the free movement of Chinese in and out of Shameen has come to assume a political nature. It is

DELAY IN INDIA CAUSED FAILURE, SAYS MACLAREN

British World Flyer Arrives In Canada On Way To England

(Reuter's Service)

Prince Rupert, B. C., Aug. 18.—Squadron-Leader MacLaren, the British world-flier, arrived here today on board a trawler and proceeded to Vancouver. All are well except Sergeant Andrews, who will be placed in hospital at Vancouver. He is suffering from a nervous breakdown.

Squadron-Leader MacLaren attributes all his difficulties to delays, owing to the accident to his machine in India, which made him one month late in reaching the fogs and storms of the north. He paid a warm tribute to the co-operation of the Canadian Government and to the friendliness of the Russian officials. He doubted whether Major Zanni would be able to cross the North Pacific this season.

Japan And Soviet Resume Their Parley

(Eastern News Agency)

Peking, August 18.—At the Russo-Japanese parley, which was opened at 4.30 o'clock this afternoon, lasting four hours and a half, several items, including the question of Saghalien rights, were discussed in detail. Though views were exchanged between the delegates of the two countries, the prospect of the negotiations still remains ambiguous. It is expected that the next meeting will be held probably on the 20th instant and that it will take several more days before a final decision is reached.

LONDON AGREEMENT IS REAL BEGINNING OF PEACE, PRESIDENT COOLIDGE SAYS

Herriot Party Is Given Ovation On Return To Paris; Opinion In All Nations Lauds Conference Work; MacDonald Makes Clear Britain's Non-Recognition Of Legality Of Ruhr Occupation By French

Berlin, August 18.—The French Commander of the bridgehead at Kehl informed the Offenburg authorities that the district of Offenburg and Appenweier would be evacuated today, the troops having received their marching orders. The last soldier would quit the town before midnight.

(Reuter's American Service)

New York, August 18.—All the morning papers greet the London Agreement as opening a new era in Europe. They particularly praise Mr. MacDonald and M. Herriot.

(Reuter's American Service)

Washington, August 18.—President Coolidge, in a statement to the press, believes that the London Conference Agreement is the most important result accomplished since the Armistice, with the possible exception of the Washington Conference.

The president says that it demonstrates the wisdom of the American position and the effectiveness of the American method of cooperation and adds that with the governments of Europe taking this wise course there should be little difficulty in securing the necessary financial support from private sources in America. It looks as though the end of war has come at last and the beginning of a "honorable and lasting peace is at hand."

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, August 18.—M. Herriot and the members of the French delegation were greeted by a wild, cheering crowd on their arrival at the station this evening.

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 18.—Mr. MacDonald addressed letters to M. Herriot and M. Theunis in which he emphasises that the British Government never recognised the legality of the occupation of the Ruhr. He says that the British Government, without prejudice to the position taken up by them and their predecessors in regard to the interpretation of the Versailles Treaty but being anxious to see the Dawes report in operation; simply note in the agreement between the occupying powers and the German Government that the occupation will not extend beyond twelve months, and very strongly urge the governments concerned to take every possible step to hasten the evacuation as the British Government are of the opinion

BANKS FAIL AS RESULT OF WAR SCARES, REPORT

Peace Movement Is Started Here By Local Bodies

As a report of the war scares in the Yangtsze Provinces, eight banks in Peking and one in Shanghai was reported to have failed yesterday. Inquiries at the Shanghai bank however failed to confirm the report. Rumors had it yesterday that the Peking banks were closed on account of their speculation in government bonds while the Shanghai institution met with the same fate because its militaristic owner had drawn out the sum of $4,000,000.

Local bodies sent representatives to a preliminary meeting held at the Society for Peace Among the Five Southeastern Provinces yesterday at the Yih Shou Li, Park Road. A manifesto was issued inviting the chambers of commerce, the provincial assemblies, the educational associations and agricultural associations of Kiangsi, Chekiang Kiangsi, Anhui and Fukien to participate in a big peace movement, restraining the militarists of the provinces from resorting to open warfare.

VINDICTIVE TO ADD TO BRITISH FORCE IN EAST

New Cruisers Are Superior To Any Similar Ships Anywhere

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 18.—The Manchester Guardian reports that the Admiralty have decided to send to the China station the light cruiser Vindictive instead of one of the smaller ships of the D type.

The change will make a huge difference in strength of the British force in the Far East. It will give the British squadron there two 10,000-ton cruisers armed with 7.5-inch guns. These vessels are superior to any cruising ships in the world at present, but will be eclipsed by the new cruisers which all the Powers are building under the Washington Agreement.

Arms Issue Causes Class War Among Canton Factions

also noteworthy that the class war between labor and capital has actually started and that the executive committee of the Patriotic Society has passed a resolution with regard to its scheme for the extension of the Shameen strike urging workmen in Canton to server their relations with all of the Powers except Soviet Russia and Germany.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, August 16.—With reference to the action of the Canton authorities which sent a gunboat to the Norwegian steamer Hav on the latter's arrival in Canton waters and by threats induced the Hav to proceed to Whampoa, according to unofficial reports reaching Peking, the Merchants Volunteer Corps at Canton on August 13 and the Canton Chinese Chamber of Commerce sent a telegram to the Diplomatic Body at Peking pointing out that there was a danger of the arms and ammunition falling into the hands of people who were not favorable to the early restoration of peace in China. The Volunteer Corps and the Chamber of Commerce state that they legally obtained permission to import the arms and ammunition on the Hav, for the purpose of defending property and maintaining their organisation, and they trusted that the Diplomatic Body would not fail to understand the position, for they had not violated any international undertakings.

On August 12 two thousand members of the Volunteer Corps assembled at the headquarters of Dr. Sun Yat-sen, requested him to hand over the arms and ammunition to them and threatened to shut up all the shops and stores in Canton if their request were not complied with.

Representatinves of the Chamber of Commerce and the Volunteer Corps, numbering 132, held a meeting also on August 12, as the result of which the Canton Government was informed that the volunteers would fight against the Canton Government if the arms and ammunition were confiscated.

According to various reports the arms on the Hav are of German manufacture, they were shipped from Belgium in the Norwegian steamer Hav. It is believed that the action of the Canton Government conflicts with the Customs regulations, and it is thought that the foreign Powers may think it necessary to take some action over the case.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Canton, August 11.—The Kwangtung Merchants' Volunteer Corps, an amalgamation of volunteer organisations in the province, with a central command now in Canton, will be formally inaugurated on August 13, notwithstanding the attempt of the Canton Government, now controlled by the Labor element and Communists, to mar public interest and enthusiasm in the self-defence movement by having issued an order instructing that the former status quo of the Canton Corps shall not be modified until the proposed regulations governing similar forces in Kwangtung are promulgated.

It is also of interest to note that the recently organised Traders' Union of Canton, an association of more than 5,000 business firms which was ordered by the Canton Mayor on August 6 to be dissolved, for having failed to register in advance, and as it conflicted with the functions of the General Chamber of Commerce, appears to be functioning as usual and is asking all shops in the city to declare next Wednesday a holiday.

The "Seventy-two Commercial Guilds' Commercial Journal," of Canton, in its editorial of August 9, says the acton of the Civil Governer in discouraging the volunteer movement is uncalled for. That the volunteer organisation in their several individual bodies have been legally recognised no one will question, and it should violate no law when they come together under a central command. Moreover, the right to assemble in the Republic of China is guaranteed by the Constitution. Of course, the necessity for such a movement, and the enthusiasm shown by the people reflect unfavorably on the incompetence of the existing government. At the same time, as the corps is composed purely of Cantonese, it will form the only trustworthy force the Canton Government will have should the mercenaries whom Dr. Sun Yat-sen has brought into Canton from eight different outside provinces decide to encroach upon the Kuomintang regime.

The resolution of the volunteer corps of the 120 towns and cities joining the movement to amalgamate was passed at a conference held in Canton May 27, and the central command of the movement was created a few days afterward. The inauguration of the movement on August 13 will be but a formal affair, in which the commanding officers and staffs will inspect a parade. The chief officers are Mr. Chan Lim-pak (Chinese Agent of the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation in Canton and a former president of the Canton General Chamber of Commerce, who is commander-in-chief of the Provincial Corps), and Messrs. Chan Kung-shau and Tang Koi-shek lieutenant commanders-in-chief. Mr. Chan Lim-pak and Mr. Tong Kai-shek are colonels commanding the Canton Merchants Volunteers, while Mr. Chan Kung-shau is a colonel commanding the Fatshan volunteers.

The work for the Canton Delta Flood Relief is now in the hands of the volunteers, aided by the Hongkong General Chinese Chamber of Commerce and the Tunk Wan Hospital. It is significant that Chinese overseas are remitting relief funds to the volunteer officials instead of to the Government officials, who may be ousted at any moment and are liable to seize the funds with them in present circumstances.

left for Kuling will return and resume practice at the end of August.

BALDWIN GIVEN WARM FAREWELL BY ULSTER FOLK

Former Premier Leaves Belfast After Conferences With Leaders

(Reuter's Service)

London, Aug. 18.—Mr. Stanley Baldwin left Belfast this morning after conferring with the Prime Minister of North Ireland, Sir James Craig, and members of the Cabinet yesterday on the boundary question.

A large crowd including members of the Ulster House of Commons bade him farewell at the station, which was decorated with Union Jacks.

An address which was presented to Mr. Baldwin by railwaymen said that Ulster men relied on his wholehearted support in these trying times. Mr. Baldwin, replying, dwelt on his interest in railways, mentioned that he had never been in Ireland before and that he had enjoyed his visit. He responded to the cheers as the train left, shouting "Good luck to you all."

Powers To Turn Over Legation To Russian Envoy

Your Excellency in the conversation above referred to, that the Soviet Government might in the future renounce its interests in the Protocol of 1901, which was also reported to my colleagues, I am requested to say that the representatives of the other Powers signatory to the 1901 and 1904 protocols, must reserve full liberty of action for their Governments in respect of the effect of such renunciation upon the rights, privileges and mutual obligations which will accrue to, or devolve upon, all the signatories of these collective agreements.

"If Your Excellency will acquaint me with the name of the person you delegate to take over the Russian Legation and keys, I shall communicate the information to the Netherlands Charge d'Affaires. (signed) Yoshizawa."

In an accompanying memorandum, the Japanese Minister says that he is desired by his American colleague to notify M. Karakhan that his action in acquiescing in the understanding embodied in the foregoing Note in no way constitutes or implies recognition on the part of the United States Government of the regime known as the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics.

Pres. Coolidge Says London Pact Marks Beginning Of Peace

that a continued occupation may prejudice the working of the Dawes plan and jeopardise the arrangements agreed to at the London Conference.

(Reuter's Service)

London, Aug. 18.—There was no material increase of business on the Stock Exchange on the signing of the agreement with Germany, but the markets are firm. Allied and German stocks are slightly higher, but foreign exchange rates on the contrary moved adversely owing to selling from the Continent.

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Aug. 18.—M. Herriot today gave representatives of the press a summary of the Conference proceedings. He said that before the adoption of the report of the experts, the problem of reparations had been handed over to conference after conference without any precise decision being arrived at. The originality of the Dawes plan consisted in its transposing in a practical way an economic question which had up to the present been treated as a political one.

The object of the Dawes plan, and the aim of the Conference, were to obtain money by interesting the debtor in his liberation. It would recreate the activity and economic unity of Germany. It would maintain sanctions, but it would leave to the Governments the care of fixing the procedure when it became necessary to impose them. It had reestablished an Inter-Allied front, which would be able to act in common should Germany fail to meet her engagements.

The United States had agreed to collaborate in this role, while Germany had taken upon herself obligations before all the world, and if she defaulted her obligations, all the nations to whom they had been made would be obliged to act in concert with a view to regulating readjustment. France would admit the principal of arbitration, which would receive wider and wider application. From now on she would receive sums in kind and or merchandise, and would be able to set down in her budget the first annuity of 900,000,000 francs, security guaranteed by the occupation of the left bank of the Rhine, and the Cologne zone would only be evacuated in the event of Germany having consented by the beginning of 1935 to the obligations of the Treaty, particularly those relating to disarmament.

The question of Inter-Allied debts would be the subject of another conference, and would be treated in taking account of the debt that had been contracted for the common safety of the Allies.

The present London Conference might be criticised, but an impartial public would admit that this was the first conference which had arrived at any result.

The French Chamber of Deputies will be convened on Thursday.

Washington, July 25.—A campaign for world cooperation to prevent war will be opened tomorrow by 26 organisations represented in the National Council for Prevention of War.

"Stop war! Cooperate!" is the slogan adopted for the movement, and its sponsors say that it will cover nearly every state in the union. One hundred and fifty thousand ministers have been asked to preach sermons on "World Cooperation" next Sunday, and public meetings will be held in many places.

The Council has announced that all of the presidential candidates will be asked the question: "How far will you cooperate for world peace?" and that later the same question will be asked of candidates for the Senate. It is proposed by the organisation to carry on the work for an initial period of three months after the opening days of its drive.

Mr. Frederick J. Libby, executive secretary of the council, said today the purpose was to "mobilize for peace now, and during the next three months to show these men who want to represent us in the national government that the will of the American people is for cooperation in international affairs."

A statement by the council said those behind the campaign believed "the time has come to eliminate 'isolation' once and for all and establish 'cooperation' as America's foreign policy."

KARAKHAN SENDS BACK SCHURMAN NOTE OF AUG. 18

Soviet Envoy Refuses To Accept Memorandum On Legation Issue

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, August 19.—M. Karakhan this afternoon sent back the American memorandum of August 18 which he refused to accept. M. Karakhan's Note to the Japanese Minister, Mr. Yoshizawa, is as follows:

"Monsieur le Minister, "I have the honor to inform your Excellency that I do not consider it possible to accept the Note of August 18 which you presented to me at the request of the American Minister. I really regret very much that you could not decline this American commission at a time when Japan herself is engaged in negotiations whose very object is to restore normal relations between the Governments of the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics and Japan. I hope, however, that if and when the U. S. S. R. recognised the Japanese Government while the latter recognises the U. S. S. R. this will not be interpreted in any sense that the U. S. S. R. will have recognised the bourgeois, capitalistic regime in Japan or taken to mean recognition by Japan of the socialistic regime of dictatorship by the proletariat. I likewise express the hope that you will have no doubt as to the fact the negotiations we are carrying on with you are being conducted not between two regimes but between the Governments of the U. S. S. R. and Japan. This understanding may make it easier for Your Excellency, it seems to me, to explain to your American collegue the limits of courtesy beyond which his fear may lead him. It should also be added for the information of your American colleague and for that matter for your other colleagues who may not have had time yet, like the American Minister, to formulate their anxiety that there does not exist in international law and practice any method of restoring the diplomatic relations between two Governments by way of returning to one of them the Legation of the latter Government situated in the capital of a third Power by the other of these two Governments, which, but accidentally and without the consent of the real owner, has in its hands the keys to the buildings of such a Legation. Herewith I beg to return the abovementioned Note of August 18.—Signed: Karakhan."

M. Karakhan retained the protocol note.

"WHITEY" SMITH

Astor House Jazz Hounds To Stage Carnival Tonight

"Whitey" Smith's jazz hounds are straining at their respective leashes and waiting for the word "go" to make the Carnival at the Astor House tonight something that will go down in the annals of Shanghai entertainment in red letters.

At 9:30 tonight, promptly, following the special dinner which the management is preparing for guests Dan Kollets, the new pianist, will do his stuff on the ivories. The special numbers will come on at half-hourly intervals and in between will be dances with the entire company of fifteen musicians whanging all the jazz in their systems and instruments out of same for the benefit of Shanghai's fancy steppers.

Mr. Carney Thereses, whose fancy fiddlin' is well-known here, will contribute a violin solo as the second number. At 10:30, Jess Sommers, who is Frisco the second, will put on his "Frisco Jazz Dance," with trick cigar, hat and everything. This speciality, which Mr. Sommers who is a natural dancer, introduced to Shanghai at the previous Carnival, is what is known in the profession as a "wow." Jess' feet seem to be composed entirely of India rubber nd he appears to have concealed prings secreted about his person o that his contortions in this act re as full of spring and motion as a brand new tennis ball.

SYNCOPATED CONCERT

The musicians by this time will have slid into their stride, according to Whitey's figuring, and at 11 the entire orchestra will give a syncopated concert. "Pale Moon," a number which has been written and arranged especially for the Astor orchestra by Jeff Anderson, trombonist, and which has not yet been published, is the election. Anderson, who has been ere before, has just returned to Shanghai with the new members of the company, after a successful season at the Palais Royale (old Tait's) in San Francisco.

The Apache dance, performed by Jess Sommers and Dora, the Beautiful Dummy, is scheduled to knock 'em out of their seats at 11:30. The real cream meringue of the evening, however, is the impersonation of a small town orchestra, playing its first concert on the village green, which the Astor House boys believe is the best thing they have attempted so far. Bill Chambers will do the directing and since his outfit will be in costume, Bill will probably have a hard time figuring out who is which and which is what.

There are surprises for encores and two brand new dance numbers. "Don't Crowd," which will be played tonight, has been arranged by Jeff Anderson from a lead sheet with a few dozen notes indicating the theme, sent him by a friend at home. "Shine," the latest hit from the states will also be played. Jess Sommers promises to do a few steps with it, too.

THE BIG FIFTEEN

The personnel of the orchestra is as follows: Jeff Anderson, trombonist, well-known in Shanghai when he played here formerly; Jess Sommers, saxaphonist, recently with Paul Asch's orchestra n the Granado theater, San Francisco; Ray Beamis violinist, and saxaphonist, formerly at the St. Francis Hotel in San Francisco; George Muggey, trumpeter, who is also known here but who has lately been with Marquard's orchestra in San Francisco. The local men in the orchestra are Bill Chambers, leader, Dan Kollets, and Kauff, who plays the sousaphone, otherwise known as the big, brass horn.

Among the "old" crowd are Frank Hall, trombonist: Joe Cloutier, trumpeter: Russell Ellis, banjo, Spencer Kapp, pianist, Claude McGuire, saxaphonist, Louis Mallety, bass and sousaphonist.

"Whitey" Smith, who is director and manager of this array of talent, explained the meaning of the new "symphonic jazz" which his crowd is introducing to Shanghai.

"'Symphonic jazz' or the 'syncopated concert,'" he said, "is an attempt to set operatic numbers and 'heavy' music to dance rhythm. Several classical pieces lend themselves readily and beautifully to jazz arrangement; for instance, 'Humoresque,' 'Souvenir,' part of the overture from 'William Tell' and others."

The purpose of the gigantic brass horn or sousaphone was also explained. This instrument, coming between the brasses of the trumpet and the trombone, tempers the tone and helps the rhythm and really gives the effect of an organ. It is particularly good in quartettes and trios, singing or playing harmony numbers.

London, Aug. 18.—The Fifth Test Match between the South Africans and England was resumed at the Oval today. Seven thousand people were present. The weather was fine but cloudy, and the wicket damp.

Sutcliffe and Hobbs, opened for England. The former had made 5 runs when he was caught out. His place was taken by Hearne, whose partnership with Hobbs, lasting 63 minutes, carried the total to 72 for 2 wickets.

Woolley, who was fourth man in, gave an exhilarating display of driving and cutting. The score at the lunch interval, with 6 extras, read 137 for 4, Sandham being 10 and Hendren 0 not out.

The bowlers, assisted at the wicket by Pegler, were very difficult to play, and the fielding was excellent.

After lunch, the English batsmen were cautious Sandham's partnership with Hendren had yielded a further 101 runs when he was caught out. He played a careful innings and his score of 46 included 5 fours.

On Tate's advent the scoring quickened. Tate hit three boundaries in the first over and sent up the 300 with a sixer. The innings lasted four hours and a quarter, at at the end of which the score stood at 328 for 6.

During tea, a heavy thunderstorm partly submerged the pitch and play was abandoned for the day.

Hendren has so far been lucky. He gave three chances. His score of 92 includes 11 fours.

With another 13 extras, the English score when stumps were drawn for the day read 332 for 6.

BOXING TONIGHT

The main event for tomorrow night at the Carlton Roof Garden will be a twelve-round scrap, with Leonardo Garcia and Young Gonzalo figuring as the principals. Little need be said of the skill of these boys in the squared ring, as they are well-known and popular among local fight fans. The bout is bound to be a pippin and we shall see whether Leonardo's fleetness of foot will enable him to pull away from his opponent's wallops.

Other bouts on the card include a couple of newcomers, namely Rush Bagtas and Young Freddie, who have been matched with Forral and Xavier respectively. The newcomers are lads who are said to have the goods and have demonstrated their wares before the promoters with the result that they will appear in the ring tomorrow.

At the request of a few sporting scribes, the management would like it known that seats marked "reporters only" are reserved for members of the local press. Time and again these seats have been taken up by others and has caused a great deal of annoyance all round. Those who have been sent complimentary tickets are kindly requested to ring up the management on Thursday afternoon and have their seats booked. It will save a good deal of inconvenience to all concerned if they will kindly bear this in mind.

Tennis Tournament At Hongkew Park In Full Swing

The annual lawn tennis tournament at Hongkew Park is now in full swing. It is said to be a record year, judging from the number of entries. As usual, however, they were able to hold only three of the five events, there being no entries forthcoming for the Ladies' Singles and Doubles. It is hoped that the ladies will give their support in these events next year, and make the tournament a complete success.

Japanese players are taking much interest in the tournament, and there are many among them who aspire to the title of Hongkew Park champion.

The Mixed Doubles, the first event to be concluded, has now reached its final stage. It will be played off this afternoon at the Park, at 4:45.

The Men's Singles has reached the third round, and the players are struggling to get into the semi-finals, which will, if the weather permits, be played on Saturday and Sunday next. The date for the finals will be announced later.

The Men's Doubles has not yet begun, but will start some time next week.

BASEBALL TODAY

The final and deciding game with the crack Keio nine will be played this afternoon on the Race Course at about 4:45.

Both teams will be out with their star pitchers back in good shape after the rest from the week-end combats.

The little portsider Hamasaki will probably be on the mound for the visitors while Manager Gallop has to chose between Taylor and Scott to do the hurling for his gang.

A record crowd is expected to witness the game for the Japanese will probably have a few hundred spectators scattered around the outside of the diamond to cheer their college boys on to victory.

New Building For William's College Is Now Completed

Construction Occupies Over Three Mow Of Land In Hsin Lung Hwa

Construction of the new building for William's College in Hsin Lung Hwa is completed. The work has been progressing rapidly since it was started last Winter. The interior is being furnished and decorated, and the building will be ready for occupation soon.

The building presents a grand outlook. It is commodious, consisting of three floors and occupying a site of over three mows. There are twelve classrooms, sixty lodging quarters and one large assembly hall, which can hold six hundred chairs. Running water and electric light will be installed and will be supplied by the college.

The new campus has twelve tennis courts and a football ground of 360 ft. long, which can be considered as one of the largest in Shanghai. There are other athletic facilities too.

The college is about three miles from the center of the city and can be reached by all sorts of vehicles. In front of the entrance to the college, The Fu-Min Motor Bus Co. has installed a new station, which is named "William." This is to facilitate the communication for the students.

Woman Stabbed On Chungking Road

A stabbing affair occurred on Monday on Chungking Road, a woman, Wong S-sz, being the victim. Dzung Ziang-ling, a hawker, was the assailant, and appeared in the Mixed Court yesterday charged with assault. He stated in justification that the lady was his wife, and he was somewhat peeved at meeting her in the company of her lover, which was what led to the stabbing.

The lady, however, says most emphatically that Dzung was not, never had been, and never would be her husband, and that she had never seen the gentleman until Monday, when, she says, he tried to snatch her rings, and when she hollered for help drew a knife and stabbed her.

P. C. C. Dow testified in Court yesterday, before Mr. Jacobs, American Assessor, and Magistrate Loh, that the complainant was now in hospital, and asked the Court to remand the case until she was able to appear. The Court accordingly remanded the defendant in custody for one week.

Humor Seen As Curb To Divorce Scourge

New York, July 7.—Most bitter quarrels between man and wife grow from trivial matters. Many of them could be averted if either party had a saving grace of humor. Lacking that—Chicago has found a method to save trivialities from landing two persons in the divorce court.

All this was explained yesterday by Mrs. M. L. Spagat, member of the Bureau of Social Service of Chicago. Mrs. Spagat is in New York City observing the convention, but took time from politics yesterday to explain how Chicago officially provides that saving grace of humor to estranged couples.

"Divorce? Why, it is not the tremendous and inevitable evil that sensational writers on social questions would have us believe."

Mrs. Spagat spoke as one having authority, as she surveyed the passing couples in the Hotel Pennsylvania.

"Most domestic troubles that end in permanent separations develop out of trivial causes, and could be prevented easily if they were handled properly."

Then Mrs. Spagat explained how Chicago pours a healing oil on the matrimonial seas.

"The judges of circuit courts will never try a divorce case where the couple have children until the parties concerned have consulted with our bureau. It is our duty to try to smooth out the difficulties.

"We have this advantage over the courts—we do our work behind closed doors. Wives and husbands often bring their suspicions and their quarrels to us. We investigate and often find the charges unfounded. Then the difficulty is easily patched up."

Behind the bureau's closed doors Chicago's social workers take man and wife aside, and after listening to their stories try to show them how much worse life could be. And if there is a bit of humor in it all 'tis pointed out. More couples go out shoulder to shoulder, smiling, than depart frowning by separate doors.

Korean Republican Leaders May Move On To Vladivostok

A proposal to remove the headquarters of the Korean Provisional Government from the French Concession here to Vladivostok has been advanced by local Koreans interested in the Republican movement and is said to be meeting with favor, the local Chinese press reports. According to one story, a branch office has already been opened in Vladivostok by the Korean independence leaders.

There have been persistent reports recently that the Soviet Government has taken a friendly attitude toward the Korean republican movement. A scheme to establish headquarters at Nikolaevsk was reported recently.

Anti-Japanese Cry Follows Supposed Murder At Nanking

According to the local Chinese press, anti-Japanese organisations here are showing an outburst of wrath in connection with the alleged murder of a Chinese hawker at Nanking by a Japanese sailor.

Details of the supposed crime are not given, other than that the sailor is alleged to have thrown his victim's body into the river at Nanking.

Meetings are said to have been held here by the Citizens Defence League Against Japanese Diplomacy and the Laborers and Merchants Mutual Aid Association as a result of which resolutions were adopted demanding an immediate protest to the Japanese government.

Telegrams were sent to officials at Nanking and to organisations in the various provinces.

Funds Are Sent Russ Refugees On Volunteer Ships

With the Waichiaopu still awaiting a reply from M. Karakhan, Soviet ambassador, with regard to its recent request for $100,000 for repatriation of the 300 Russians aboard the Volunteer ships here, the local Bureau of Foreign Affairs has been obliged to send an additional $2,000 to the men to relieve the acute distress aboard the ships, according to the Chinese press.

Some days ago General Ho Feng-lin, defense commissioner for Shanghai and Sungkiang and Mr. Hsu Yuan, Commissioner for Foreign Affairs, requested the Waichiaopu to provide $100,000 for the repatriation of the men if the vessels were to be turned over to the Soviet. Peking, however, took the attitude that this expense should be borne by the Soviet Government and has written a note to M. Karakhan accordingly. A reply was promised within three days, but has not yet been forthcoming.

Relatives who had followed the man from the house, however, raised an alarm, and nearby boatmen fished the would-be suicide out. He was taken to West Hongkew Police Station, where it was found that his condition was serious and he was accordingly sent to St. Luke's Hospital for treatment. On being released from hospital, he will be charged in the Mixed Court.

MOTORSHIPS WILL BRING PROFITS TO THE OWNERS

Executive Says New Tpye Has Passed The Experimental Stage

London, July 16.—How a fleet of steamers may be a losing concern on a service where a fleet of motor ships can prove a good business proposition was told during an interview with Mr. H. Farquharson Kerr, the European manager of the Kerr Steamshhip Co., Ltd. who have shipping interests all over the world.

"The motor ship has long passed its experimental stages," said Mr. Kerr; "it is now just as reliable as the motor car. Different cars give different performances, but they are all good, and we cannot do without them."

"In December, 1922, the Kerr Steamship Co., Ltd., inaugurated the K.K.K.—Roosevelt Line, running to the Far East from New York, via the Panama Canal. It was managed by Messrs. S. and J. Thompson, of 80, Bishops-gate, London. The company employed their Norwegian steamers, six of them, on the service, and they made a round the world trip from New York, through the Panama Canal, to Kobe, Yokohama, Shanghai, Hongkong, and then home to New York via the Suez Canal. No ports in the United Kingdom were touched.

FROM LOSS TO PROFIT

This month a new motor ship services will open on his route. There will be nine motor ships in the fleet. Five of these will be built in British yards, and they will be run in conjunction with four steamers supplied by Messrs. Kawasaki Kisen Kaisha, a company managed by Mr. Kojiro Matsukata, son of Prince Matsukata. But the Japanese interests intend to replace their steamers by motor ships at the earliest possible moment. These will be built in Japan. Then the fleet will consist of nine new motor vessels.

"The decision to change the fleet over to motor ships was simply a cut and dried business arrangement. We found our ships were running on the dearest coal bunkering route in the world. At Panama coal is about 48s a ton. At other points coal has to be shipped out from the British sources. It meant that as a steamship service there was an absolute loss.

MUCH MORE SPACE

"For example, we get all our oil bunkers from San Pedro, in California, and 900 to 1,000 tons of oil stored in double botttoms, will take one of our vessels from New York to Japan and back again, whereas 1,600 tons of coal were necessary for the voyage simply from New York to Japan. Then the coal in Japan is rather poor stuff. These figures show how big a saving in space the change to motor ships means. The steamers used 35 tons of coal per day, and the motor ships will use about 7½ to 9 tons of oil per day. On this route we only carry general cargo.

"The Silver Elm, Silver Cedar and Silver Fir, all 8,000 tons deadweight, are building at Doxford Yard, with Doxford engines. When we saw the splendid performances of the Neptune engine, fitted by Messrs. Swan, Hunter and Wigham Richardson, we ordered the Silver Pine and the Silver Larch for the company. They will be a little larger, 8,500 tons d.w., and fitted with the Neptune engine.

LARGE CUBIC CAPACITY

"The Silver Pine, now completing will leave New York about July 5th.

"First there will be a sailing every month, and then, when the Japanese motor ships are ready, once a fortnight.

"An outstanding feature of these motor ships is the very large cubic capacity, which consists of 535,000 cubic feet bale space. The guaranteed speed is 10½ knots, and the consumption is about 8¾ tons of oil for the main engines, with about 2 tons for the auxiliaries.

"The new service represents in a very practical way the arrival of the motor cargo vessel.

"After a few voyages with vessels in the new fleet some very interesting data ought to be available to use in comparison with this service when it was entirely maintained by steamers."

American Electrical Equipment Sought Throughout World

Exports In Fiscal Year 1924 Total $70,000,000, Against $25,000,000 In 1914

Exportation of $70,000,000 worth of electrical machinery and apparatus in the fiscal year 1924, against $25,000,000 in 1924 and $10,000,000 in 1904, illustrates the rapid increase in world use of our electrical apparatus of every day requirements of man the world over, says the Trade Record of the New York National City Bank.

American electric fans are buzzing in the tropics the world around; American cooking and heating devices are minimizing the duties of the home from the equator to the Arctics; American lamps are lighting the cities and villages and homes in the most distant countries and colonies in the world, and our motor-driven household devices are lightening the cares of the housewife from the Occident to the Orient and from the Far North to the most distant South.

Take the electric fan, for example; we sold nearly $1,000,000 worth of them to other lands in the fiscal year just ended, sending them not only to every corner of the tropics, but to all sections of the inhabited world, including Finland and the Yukon at the north and the southern tip of Africa at the south.

The housewives of all parts of the globe are demanding American motor-driven household devices to the tune of nearly $1,000,000 a year, and they went in the latest year for which details are available to practically all the countries of the world.

Of course the demand for radio and wireless apparatus comes in increasing intensity and from every country of the globe, and the $4,000,000 worth sent out of the country in the fiscal year 1924 went to 60 countries, including the Azores, Iceland, Honduras, Java, India, Straits Settlements, China, Hongkong, the Philippine Islands and Siam. The doctors the world around are showing their appreciation of American therapeutic apparatus and x-ray machines and took $1,000,000 worth in the year just ended.

MARCONI SEES REVOLUTION IN RADIO SHORTY

Very Short Wave Lengths At Small Cost Will End High-Power Stations

Rome, July 10.—Lecturing before Rome's intellectual world, in the hall of the Horati and Curiati in the Capitoline Building, Senator Marconi today said that developments of wireless had been following a blind alley by the constant use of long wave lengths.

He prophesied that soon nothing but stations of very small power will be in use, due to the application of recent discoveries on short wave lengths and the system of directional waves like beams of light which have been patented by himself and his engineer, Franklin, of the Marconi Company.

By short wave lengths he said he meant waves with length measured in meters or even in centimeters, instead of in thousands of meters.

For his system, which consists in the use of waves of very short length and directing them in beams toward the receiving station, Senator Marconi claims the following advantages over the old system:

First, that it works efficiently with only a fraction of the power necessary hitherto, and that, therefore, the first cost of sending stations will be greatly reduced;

Second, that it permits greater speed in sending, and that, therefore, each station will be able to do a greater amount of work in the same time;

Third, that short wave lengths are almost never affected by atmospheric disturbances, and that, therefore, it will be possible to guarantee a continuous service every minute of the twenty-four hours;

Fourth, that the greater range of wave lengths available will permit a larger number of stations to be installed without any danger of their interfering with each other.

The result of these four factors working together, he said, will certainly lead to the scrapping in the near future of all the high-power stations at present in existence and the substitution of small, cheap stations doing a greater amount of work better and at smaller cost. This, in its turn, will lead to a notable reduction in the rates now charged for commercial wireless messages, he said.

Senator Marconi reminded his audience that in a lecture he delivered in the same hall in 1903 immediately after having established the fact of wireless communication, he said that communication between the most distant parts of the globe would soon be possible. He added that this, at twenty-one years distance, was now accomplished and that short wave lengths would in the future permit these communications to be maintained more regularly, more easily, more efficiently and at lower cost.

FOUND ONE KILOWATT SUFFICIENT

In support of his contentions Senator Marconi described the meters, he said, two or three results of some of his recent experiments.

At first twelve kilowatts were used at the sending station of Poldhu, England and signals were picked up by Marconi on his yacht Electra at a distance of 4,000 kilmeters. The signals were so strong that they drowned out all station discharges and atmospheric disturbances, and the results thus obtained were far superior to those which could be obtained with 200 kilowatts on an ordinary system.

The power at the sending station was then reduced to one kilowatt, and this was found amply sufficient to maintain regular service between two points at 2,000 kilometers' distance.

With a wave length of 90 kilowatts would be quite sufficient to communicate regularly aross the Atlantic Ocean.

DISCOVERY SURPRISED HIM

His most notable achievement, he stated, was the experiment he performed on May 30 of this year. Using only 28 kilowatts, the human voice broadcast at Poldhu was picked up in Sydney, Australia. He confessed that it was a surprise even to himself to receive the report from the manager of the Australian Wireless Company stating that the message was clear, loud and uniform, in spite of the fact that the receiving apparatus was improvised and of the most simple description.

The fact that under these adverse conditions 28 kilowatts were able to span the greatest possible distance on the globe, he said, was of first rate importance.

Among the unexplained curiosities of wireless phenomena Marconi mentioned the fact that free wireless waves, if sent from Poldhu, England, in the morning, reach Australia via the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans, covering in all a distance of 22,000 kilometers, while if they are sent in the afternoon or evening they travel over Europe and Asia and cover a distance of only 17,000 kilometers.

No adequate explanation of the different behavior of waves in the morning and afternoon has been found.

Senator Marconi also announced his discovery that the intensity of wireless signals varies with the mean height of the sun over the region between the sending and receiving stations. What effect the sun has on the wireless waves is also still wrapped in mystery, he concluded.

OIL PRICES ARE REDUCED IN U. S. DESPITE DEMAND

Decline In Daily Output Has Also Failed To Prevent Cuts

Several reductions in the price of crude oil were announced last month in New York, despite the fact that the demand for oil products is the largest in the history of the country and that the daily average production of crude oil today is 200,000 barrels less than at the peak last summer. The weakness in crude oil is attributed to the surplus stocks in storage, the aggregate being the largest in the history of the industry. The prediction is made, however, that the price trend will again be upward during the latter part of the year, when the Summer withdrawals from storage will have had an effect.

Within the month of June prices have been reduced in Kansas and Oklahoma, where crude is now quoted at $1.55 a barrel, against $1.75 a barrel in April and May; also, in Pennsylvania, where crude is now quoted at $3.25 a barrel, against a high price of $4.50 quoted earlier in the year. Smaller reductions in prices have been made in other Western and Southern States. Accompanying the reductions in crude prices there have been some downward revisions in the prices for refined products in the West and the South. In the East there has been little or no change in refined prices.

The Standard Daily Trade Service says: "Further significant reactions are hardly to be anticipated" in the immediate future, "in fact, a slight strengthening tendency is likely to be noted along with what increase in consumption and declines in reserves will be recorded during July and August. During the latter part of the year the upward tendency should become more marked. New wells are on the whole less prolific than those they succeed; new drillings are being steadily reduced; and no new areas of great importance, from the production standpoint, have been discovered. Even the steady increase in Oklahoma production has not brought output even with last year's total at this time. All these facts point to a more favorable trend in the industry once the storage situation has improved."

INCREASE IN CRUDE OUTPUT

For the last three months, according to the review, there has been an almost steady increase in the daily average production of crude oil. The output in June was the largest for any month thus far this year, and it is about 14 percent below the peak level in 1923. As a result of this increase in production there has been no substantial improvement in the oil situation. But at the same time consumption while much larger than last year, has failed to materialize at the rate expected, and as a result the record amount of crude oil and refined products held in storage continues to balk any attempts to raise prices at this time.

"While there is no logical reason to anticipate any such material increase in production as took place in the third quarter last year, there is, on the other hand, no basis for expecting that it will be possible to reduce the new record reserves of both crude and refined oil to a point which would warrant any marked improvement in the price situation before the fall," says the review. "In this lies the explanation for the recent hesitancy of the oil shares in a stock market working steadily to higher levels."

The review further says: "The oil situation is not likely to take any quick or decisive turn for the better during the near-term future. Stocks have grown to proportions that are too great to permit of anything but slow improvement. But, with due consideration to the fact that oil and oil products prices are averaging considerably better than last Summer or last Fall, to the fact that oil company profits are doubtless running better than at this time last year, to the moderately strong outlook for slow Summer improvement," the opinion is expressed that the companies in general will experience greater prosperity during the last half of 1924.

PRODUCTION CURTAILMENT

"Attempts at voluntary curtailment of production in Oklahoma have thus far proved abortive, just as they did a year ago in California," continues the review. "A year ago it was in the California fields that production was overlarge. Now California production is falling off steadily through the exhaustion of flush fields; but what has been gained in California has been more than offset by the increase in Oklahoma. With the failure of the attempts to bring about a voluntary curtailment of production in the Oklahoma fields, there has been some pro-rating of pipe line runs there, and a general plan of pro-rating for the entire mid-Continent field is reported under consideration.

"In its larger term forecast aspects, the production situation is somewhat more favorable than current output data would indicate. Current production probably is not far from the 1924 peak (assuming always that there will be no new prolific fields coming in). Either voluntarily or through pro-rating measures, output will be held within reasonable limits, and time will be allowed for some reduction of stocks. Heavier consumption alone will shortly serve to draw down storage reserves.'"

In reference to the Government's suit against the oil companies, the review says:

"The ultimate outcome of the suit is both dubious and remote, and it therefore offers no basis for influencing at this time either the present holder of oil company shares or the prospective purchaser of oil company shares. It will be a matter of years, rather than months, before the varied ramifications of the thing can be ground through the courts. The probable effect upon gasoline prices is equally remote, and even more dubious. Only 25 percent of our total gasoline supply is manufactured under the patents which the Government seeks to have declared invalid."

China's "Misrepresentation" Abroad

IT probably is genuine cause for gratification that China is beginning to protest at what she considers to be misrepresentation abroad. A couple of years ago the Chinese students in America kicked up quite a fuss over a play which was presented in New York depicting the system of plural marriages which still prevails after a fashion in China. Chinese students wrote letters to the New York newspapers branding the play a libel upon the Chinese family system and they kept up the agitation against the objectionable play in spite of the fact that news dispatches from Peking at the time told of a former President of the Republic who had fled from the capital after turning over the seals of his office to his secondary wife.

Now there has been another "incident," according to the last issue of the Chinese Students' Monthly, and strangely enough, this one also was a play depicting a matrimonial adventure in which the characters were a mandarin and his daughter and had to do with the daughter's love for "a certain Mr. Chang, the secretary of her father." The mandarin part was played by a missionary home on leave. The critic of this "misrepresentation" of China in the Students' magazine says: "I see no justification for using the corrupt figure of a mandarin, which was typical only of the officialdom of a deceased dynasty and which has always been regarded by all Chinese as a disgrace to the Chinese race," and in referring to the missionary's portrayal of the character, the writer labels it as "disgraceful and misrepresentative." And if this were not sufficient criticism he went further and said, "I was amazed to see China being misrepresented by an American missionary in a manner most irreconcilable with his noted experience in China. I have been reluctantly driven to the conclusion that it is missionaries of the type of Dr. Blank that are causing more misunderstanding at home and abroad and doing more harm to the spread of the Christian Gospel than the strongest of infidels. . . ."

In addition to the criticism which has been leveled at these plays, the Chinese students in America have also been out "gunning" for the movie producers who have found in "John Chinaman" a willing character for the villain of the screen. The Chinese Students' Alliance in the United States a few months ago addressed a "masterly" letter of protest on this subject to Mr. Will Hayes, director of the Motion Picture Industry of the United States, and although we have not been informed of results, we assume, if the students have their way, the scenario writers will be forced to look elsewhere for their "bad" characters.

China's adventure in banditry has also provided a subject for the play and scenario writers of other lands and doubtless this likewise will provide matter for the student critics who have a natural desire to see their country and countrymen presented in a favorable light. Play-wrights as well as short-story writers are hard-working individuals who must keep abreast of the times, so what should be more natural than that they should seize upon the most prominent news of the day for subjects? An American who had resided in China for several years recently wrote a friend in Shanghai that, as far as he could discover, the American people were interested only in the strange and bizarre things of China. "When I begin to talk about the serious and worth-while things of China, they always yawn and change the subject to baseball or politics," was this man's comment.

It is pretty difficult to get at the basic reasons for this condition. Peoples acquire certain ideas regarding other peoples and their habits and customs and although these ideas may be entirely erroneous they cling to them with everlasting persistence. The Englishman with a monocle, the swarthy Latin with a dagger concealed in his belt, the Japanese with their eternal cherry blossoms, and the Chinese dive-keeper with his opium outfit are pictures in the public mind of America that are difficult to eradicate, and although we are not familiar with the pictures of the typical American which other peoples carry around in their minds we have a suspicion that he must either be a millionaire with a bundle of bank-notes in his hand searching for art treasures or a masked gentleman with a rope in his hand looking for someone to lynch.

China's difficulties, from the standpoint of her representation or misrepresentation in the United States, are largely of her own making and have their foundation in Chinese conservatism. China has permitted the other fellow to do her advertising for her. Outside of a few students who write letters of protest to the newspapers, there is no one to picture China—real China—to the foreigner. Up to very recent years, most of the books about China were written by foreigners, and although many foreign writers have, through long residence and intimate association, been permitted to obtain a glimpse of China's real soul and character, most of them have only touched the edges and "strange" phases. In the field of economics and commerce the Government Bureau of Economic Information is doing an excellent work in making China known favorably abroad, but this is only one lone voice in the wilderness of misunderstanding. China certainly needs advertising abroad of the favorable kind, and since one of the important results of good advertising is that it forces the advertiser to live up to his advertising in order to make it resultful, we hope that China will take the hint and soon embark upon an advertising campaign.

Chinese And The Parks

THE remarks which we published in this column on Sunday last, relative to the admission of Chinese into our public parks, has roused no small amount of interest amongst Chinese readers. It is apparent that eventually the day will come when the public parks of Shanghai will be open to all inhabitants of this port, but that involves a change in the relationship of China with the foreigner which may still be in the very far future. In the meantime, however, there is not the slightest doubt that some Chinese, particularly of the better classes, resent the fact of their exclusion from our open spaces, and undoubtedly there is much sympathy felt with their point of view. If we are content and even honored to have Chinese friends as guests in our homes, surely those same people should be welcome in our parks. Of that there can be no gainsaying. But those same Chinese will doubtless agree that a general extension of the privilege would be as unacceptable to them as it would be to the foreigners. True, all of the latter who are admitted do not tend to beautify these places by their presence, but as we foreigners are unable to discriminate amongst ourselves, so also would it be impossible to say what Chinese should or should not enjoy the same right were the policy of extension adopted.

"Another consideration is to be found in the history of two of our parks. The Public Gardens, if our memory is not at fault, were originally set aside, at the express wish of the Chinese authorities, as a place for foreign recreation. The accretion of land around a sunken vessel led to a claim by the British Consulate to the foreshore thus created. The claim was denied by the Chinese authorities, and the dispute was settled by the Chinese conceding the British claim on condition that the land was used for foreign recreation. A similar provision, we believe, attaches to the grant of the interior of the Race Course. It would appear, therefore, that to open these two spaces to the Chinese, would be to violate the principal condition upon which the land was first given to Shanghai. Left with only two other parks to consider—Hongkew and Jessfield—it is hardly open to question that these are insufficient for the foreign population alone. There would certainly be no room for foreigners if they were thrown open to Chinese generally.

"A Chinese Resident" asks "why not construct more parks?" Supposing the money were available, which we gravely doubt, where does he suggest the land should be found? Within the limits of the Settlement? If space were available, its cost would be prohibitive. Outside the Settlement it would be possible, we suppose, to acquire a sufficient area, but does "A Chinese Resident" believe that the municipality would be allowed to purchase such land, even for a park to which Chinese would be admitted? We have no doubt that an attempt to do so, would be bitterly opposed by those sections of the Chinese who are hostile to Settlement extension in any shape or form. Consequently, we feel there is little to be found in the argument that we should have more parks.

"A Chinese Citizen" raises the point in another way, and his version of the incident with the European police officer and the "elderly lady" is not pleasant reading. If he has correctly reported the remarks of the police officer, they seem to be sufficient to justify our correspondent bringing the matter to the notice of the proper authorities. So far as the "elderly lady" was concerned, our correspondent's description is probably correct as to her age, but certainly is not as to her social status.

If we have shown that there are difficulties as regards the Public Gardens and the Race Course, and that with regard to the other two spaces the wholesale admission of Chinese may not be altogether satisfactory, it is possible that something might be done towards meeting our correspondent's views. As we have said, however, discrimination is always unfortunate. Mistakes too often occur when this practice is adopted, and probably more unpleasant incidents would occur, and more individuals aggrieved were any policy adopted which would empower some official or other to make quick decisions as to who should or should not be admitted to our parks.

Britain, Egypt And The Sudan

THE British Acting High Commissioner in Egypt has been authorised to inform the Egyptian Government that, in view of the recent rioting at Atbara and Port Sudan, His Britannic Majesty's Government warn the Egyptian Government very explicitly that the former regard themselves responsible for the maintenance of order in the Sudan and intend to support the Sudan Government in any steps they may deem necessary to preserve public security. The British Government quite rightly resents very strongly the inference conveyed by the Egyptian Press that the British troops caused the disturbances in the Sudan or inflicted casualties at Atbara, and can only regard the recent action of the Railway Battalion as a direct result of the exaggerated Egyptian claims in respect of the Sudan and are, therefore, taking the requisite steps to deal with the disaffected elements among the Egyptian troops.

With the pledge given in the House of Commons on July 10 by the Prime Minister that the water supply of Egypt would be secured in all circumstances, the ill-advised agitation of Egyptian politicians for suzerainty over the Sudan was denuded of the last shred of any justification. There are, as a matter of fact, many cogent reasons to justify the unbending opposition of Great Britain to any handing over of the Sudan to Egyptian administration. It is essential, in the first place, that, as Mr. Ormsby-Gore pithly expressed it, a square deal shall be secured for the Sudanese. The claim that, in order to secure her frontiers and her water-rights, Egypt must get possession of the country is of very doubtful validity. Egypt owes her present measure of economic prosperity to the British Administration, and, to put the matter bluntly, she has not yet reached the status of a colonising nation. The significance of the Fashoda incident, though many years old, should not be lost sight of, for it serves to indicate what might happen in the future if a weak Power were left with the responsibility of guarding the upper waters of the Nile. Nor would the Sudanese be likely to take kindly to Egyptian methods and institutions; they are vocal, in fact, in their protest.

The considered view is held in responsible circles in Great Britain that to this admittedly hostile attitude to any projected change in the form of Government, Great Britain, in her peculiar position as trustee, is bound to give heed. A continuance of British control is demanded, and the plain duty of Great Britain is to go on developing the territory until the people reach a position where they can stand alone. Neither on grounds of morals nor of race has Egypt any just claim to be the overlord of the Sudan. What she is entitled to is a proper undertaking that the waters of the Nile, upon which her prosperity depends, shall be secured to her use for all time. A properly drawn up agreement, backed by her own Government and that of Great Britain, may well be desirable, and we have the assurance of Mr. MacDonald that it will be forthcoming.

The existing administration unquestionably has redounded enormously to the benefit of the Sudan, and Great Britain cannot alter it. To do so would involve a grave breach of trust which might prove a prelude to disaster. The British attitude towards the question, as defined by Mr. Lloyd George in 1922, is the attitude of today. It is that "His Majesty's Government would never allow the progress that had already been made in the Sudan, and the greater progress of future years, to be jeopardised." The position the Sudan is destined to reach as a contributor to the world's stock of commodities may well be of very great importance. In order to enable its potentialities to be realised, capital and organised work are necessary. Both can and will be provided, given proper safeguards. The achievements of the Sudan Plantations Syndicate in the development of cotton-growing are a sufficiently clear indication of what may be expected to continue to be done under the present regime. There is no alternative to a continuance of British administration, since any other control could not offer equal guarantee of security.

EXCERPTS FROM GREAT WRITERS

By Mathy

SELF-CURE

"How," writes a lady, "can I remove the following difficulties from my path?

"How can I overcome the lazy habit of oversleeping in the morning—laziness in general, in fact?

"How can I overcome the fear and worry habit?

"How can I 'let go' of the thoughts of past disappointments, mistakes, etc? I have tried all manner of ways to divert my mind by work and study.

"Do you believe in confession, in the case of a non-Catholic, for the purpose of relieving the mind?

"How can I overcome prejudice? I find I am prejudiced against certain sects and races."

Rather a stiff task, to answer all these questions. Of course, I cannot "answer" them fully. All I or anyone can do is to give a few hints which may be useful.

Oversleeping is not necessarily laziness. Go to bed earlier, if you have to rise at a certain hour. It's a safe rule to take all the sleep you can get. The rule in my own family is, "Let the sleepy sleep."

Laziness is not a bad quality always. A lazy body often houses a most energetic mind. The real cure for physical laziness is fun; find some form of exercise that lures you. Mental laziness is a more difficult disease, and you can only cure it by taking yourself severely in hand. Usually, I should say, it is hopeless.

Fear can generally be mitigated, if not altogether removed, by intelligence. It is a by-product of ignorance, as a rule. We are afraid of what we don't know. Science (knowledge) has done much to alleviate superstition (ignorance).

Worry can only be remedied by adopting some rational theory of life, some common-sense philosophy. Maeterlinck and Emerson have done me more good, as worry-antidotes, than any other masters.

How to "let go" of bedevilling thoughts is a hard problem. Thoughts that burn, stew, ferment, and torment—who has not suffered from them? About all I can do is to let them run their course. I say, "This, too, shall pass!" and try to bear up against the pestiferous imaginings and memories until they wear themselves out.

It is also a good idea to have some attractive, interesting, fascinating vision, of a pleasant nature, to which we can turn our minds when annoying suggestions persist. The author of "Alice in Wonderland" (who was a great mathematician) used to work out geometrical tasks, which he called "pillow problems" (and wrote a book of that name), to get himself to sleep. Can't you find some alluring things to think of when wooing slumber? Call for them, and by and by they will come.

Do I believe in confession? Nothing can so purge the soul. Still, it must be exercised with the extremest care, judgment, and discretion, else you may harm others in pacifying yourself.

"How can I overcome prejudices against such and such sects or races?" Just repeat over and over to yourself that all prejudice is stupid and ignorant. By and by you will, by auto-suggestion, get it into your subconsciousness that prejudice shall have no place in you.

Prejudice means "judging before" you have the facts. Never judge till after you have the facts.

Nothing is so utterly devoid of reason as a passionate hatred of any race or class. All men are much the same when you come to know them. Class or race faults are superficial. The human qualities strike deep.

DRESS

By Mary Marshall

White Sport Skirts of the Wrap-around Sort Are Chosen By Discriminating Women

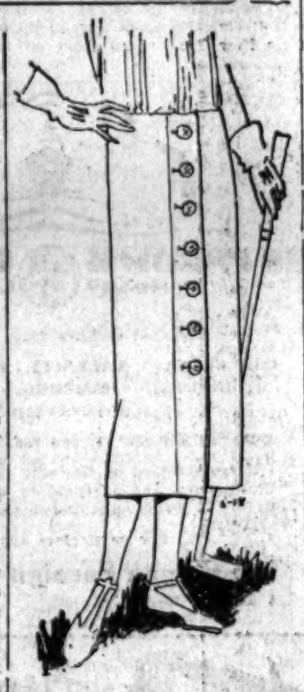
The straight wrap-around skirt of flannel has undoubtedly taken the place among smartly dressed women of the pleated skirt of a season or more ago. To be sure there are pleated skirts here and there, but for the every-day choice the plain flannel skirt is preferred.

Some young women wear nothing but plain white flannel skirts for sport and morning, introducing the note of color in the jacket with which they wear it, in cravat, scarf, etc. Then there are white flannel skirts trimmed with color. One has a bright green ribbon edging the skirt with a row of small green glass buttons running ten inches up the front opening. Another white flannel skirt showed in edging of a wide ribbon in Roman stripes and plaid ribbon has been used to edge some of the new white flannel skirts.

The sketch shows the sort of skirt that is chosen by many American women for golf, tennis and other summer sports. This one is in powder blue. Orange and yellow are also chosen, beige is still well liked, and so is light green. Considerable distinction is carried with the flannel skirt of gray. On the skirt shown large crystal buttons are placed at the front opening, made more effective by being sewed on with bright blue silk.

Some of the flannel skirts are made with two or three bands of faggotting going horizontally about the bottom, at the top of the hem. Especially for the taller women these skirts are becoming, as they break the length of line.

There are other white skirts made with an applied hem of colored flannel. Green, red and brown are among the most effective colors. The hem, six inches wide, ss blind-stitched on in flat seam, and is well pressed.



Powder blue flannel skirt fastened with crystal buttons.

ODD FASHIONS

Where do you hang your necklaces? About your neck? Quite old fashioned, that idea. The smart woman nowadays hangs them about the neck and arms of china or porcelain figures on her dressing table. To be sure, she borrows them sometimes to wear, but she makes a hobby of decorating her little figures with them.

WITH RASPBERRIES

Raspberry Charlotte Russe

Raspberry charlotte russe calls for one quart of fresh raspberries, a dozen lady fingers, one ounce of gelatine, one cupful of powdered sugar, and a pint of thick cream whipped stiff and sweetened to taste. The lady fingers should be split and placed in a tin mold which has been lined with white paper. Now soak the gelatine in a cup of cold water and when soft place over the fire to dissolve. Let the gelatine mixture cool and add to the juice of the quart of raspberries and one cup of powdered sugar. Now add the whipped cream and pour the mixture into the mold and place on the ice for two or three hours before serving.

Raspberry Cakes

A delicious baked dessert calls for one pint of red raspberries. Sprinkle with a little powdered sugar and when they have stood for an hour drain off a cup of juice. Now make a batter with two tablespoons of butter, one-half cup of granulated sugar, the berry juice, one and one-half cups of flour into which has been sifted one teaspoon of baking powder, and the beaten whites of two eggs. Bake in muffin tins and serve with crushed raspberry sauce.

Make the sauce this way from the raspberries left from the juice: Add one cupful of water and boil for five minutes. Beat the yolks of two eggs very light and add a scant cup of sugar, strain the boiling juice over the egg mixture and stir in a double boiler till the sauce is as thick as cream.

CHINESE AND PUBLIC PARKS

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS:

Dear Sir:—In your editorial columns of Sunday, the 17th inst., we must thank you for your broad-minded suggestion that "the time has almost arrived for the admission, with certain restrictions, of Chinese residents to the Public Parks in the Shanghai foreign Settlement" but certainly we would not resort to the childish retaliation, as you finally suggested, that "if the question of opening the public parks in the Settlement to Chinese remains at a deadlock, the Chinese should construct for themselves a Public park near the borders of the Settlement and then put up a sign on the entrance: 'Foreigners not Admitted.'"

The whole state of affairs has been originally created, not at all upon any right of justice or necessity, but upon the materialism characteristic of the Occidental Civilisation that "Might Is Right." All of the injustices imposed upon China by force cannot be righted themselves until she becomes militarised and strong enough to talk by force as Turkey did after the European War.

The Public Parks are put up on Chinese soil and constructed with public funds to which the Chinese have contributed no little in the form of municipal taxes. You say that "owing to the excess of Chinese population over foreign population, had the parks been thrown open to Chinese without discrimination, there naturally would have been no room for the foreigners, etc.," but why not construct more parks?

The whole country of China is in the sense a Great Park owned by Chinese; can foreigners be denied admission? There are numerous smaller parks composed in this Great Park, such as the picturesque lakes, mountains, etc.; can these be denied to visitation by foreigners? Even when China becomes strong enough to do so by force, she would never do it, because it is directly against her Culture characteristic of the Oriental Civilisation which preaches "People Within The 4 Seas Are All brothers" (四海之內皆兄弟也) and "Respond Enmity With Justice" (以直報怨)

Thanking you for your space,
A CHINESE RESIDENT,
Shanghai, August 18.

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Dear Sir:—While having our promenade, we passed by the gate of the Jessfield Park where something dramatically unpleasant and absurd came to pass. When we stopped to ask a Chinese policeman if respectably dressed Chinese are permitted to enter the Park as it is the case with the French Park, a European police officer, with an assuming disposition and an arrogant voice, mustered up whatever courage he had, saying: "The Chinese are savages; they are debarred from the use of the Park."

Well, this unprovoked condemnation of the people makes us think that he talked as though he were in Tasmania speaking to the aborigines. We told him that he was talking to respectably dressed gentlemen. His retort was: "Why should you Chinese put on the foreign dress?" My goodness! Does he know of European missionaries wearing Chinese long gowns in Yunnan and Szechwan? Many European evangelists put on the artificial Chinese queue while preaching the Christian teaching in the interior under the Manchu Regime? It is their liberty to put that on, so it is our liberty to put on foreign dress. A person putting on foreign dress does not lose his nationality at all.

In the nick of time, an elderly lady happened to come out from the Park. This particularly unscrupulous lady cast a contemptible glance at us, making this high-sounding remark, "Put them in the police station." To her the municipal jail is as inviting and ready as the Black Hole of Calcutta. What crimes have we committed to deserve this highly complimentary statement that escaped the lips of a supposedly respectable elderly lady? Imagine a Chinese citizen under the full protection of the laws of the State being so easily put in the police station for being a suspected or prospective patron of a municipal park for the maintenance of which the Chinese residents in the Settlement are also responsible. Had not another young lady with a genuine heart and true spirit pulled away that elderly lady, something yet more dramatic would have taken place, and a few more explosive sentences would have been hurled at her innocent victim.

The Chinese, as a rule, like foreigners; we don't see any reason why some individuals with a queer mentality should so much antagonise the respectable Chinese.

It will be very kind of you if you will put this letter in your "Correspondence Column." Enclosed please find my card.

Yours indignantly,
A CHINESE CITIZEN.

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS:

Sir:—I beg to request your favor to spare a short space of your paper for the discussion of a momentous question concerning not only an individual Chinese but the Chinese people as a whole. It is on the prohibition of Chinese entering the public parks in the Settlement. The public park is a place for all peoples to obtain the exhilarating effect of out-door with no regard to races. Now that the Chinese are being taxed, directly or indirectly, for the maintenance of the parks and are denied the privilege of entering, it appears to me not only the original intent and purpose of the park-builders are lost but a sheer violation of the principle of justice and fairness which the Western people used to cherish is done. If the situation should continue to exist, I believe it would serve to enhance the national indignation of the Chinese people and thus spread the seed of racial hatred to the disadvantage of both the East and the West.

The injustice toward the Chinese is great when we consider the fact that ragged foreigners are regarded as qualified visitors whereas many educated and gentleman behaving Chinese are disqualified. I feel sure any sensible man will agree with me that any Chinese who puts on neat clothing should be allowed to enter the parks. The time is ripe to remove the bar against the Chinese. May I wish that the lawmakers will put the matter into effect at an early moment.

FORMAMINT
THE GERM KILLING THROAT TABLET

If you Suffer from "Smoker's Throat"

—or other painful irritations of the oral cavity you should at once use FORMAMINT.

"In both acute and chronic pharyngitis, induced by abuse of tobacco, Formamint Tablets have proved particularly efficacious in the hands of the medical profession," writes the Medical Press.

Sucking these palatable, harmless tablets promotes an abundant flow of saliva, which itself is rendered germicidal. Thus the whole mouth and throat are slowly saturated with a soothing, healing antiseptic fluid, which penetrates everywhere.

With the destruction of the causative bacteria, swelling and inflammation subside, and Nature does the rest—without the fuss and trouble of old-fashioned methods like gargling or painting the throat with caustic and nauseating chemicals.

Larceny Said To Involve Diamonds Worth Thousands

Five men, all with previous Court convictions were sentenced in the Mixed Court yesterday for a larceny which according to the complainant involved diamonds worth several thousand dollars. Three men had operated on their victim, a Chinese merchant, as he was getting of a street-car, one having bumped him and knocked off his glasses, another "lifting" his wallet, and a third receiving it from the second and making off with it. A hunt located the wallet, and five men were taken into custody, but denied all knowledge of any diamonds. The complainant stated in Court yesterday that he had since advertised for the diamonds and they had been returned to him, he paying $2,500 reward.

The accused men were found guilty of the charge against them, and the three principals each sentenced to a year's imprisonment and expulsion from the Settlement. The other two defendants, who appear to have taken no active part in the actual theft, were each sentenced to three months, also with expulsion.

It says that the corps had been in existence for over ten years, during which it had concentrated its efforts on the maintenance of peace of the locality. It had refrained from playing politics in order to uphold the true spirit of neutrality. The purchase of arms this time was for the purpose of assisting the government whenever the latter's activities are handicapped. The purchase has been styled as smuggling. The government has turned a deaf ear to the pleadings. The corps has no alternative but to appeal to the sense of justice of the public. —Shanghai Tribune.

Police Constable Sentenced To Two Years For Thefts

Kau Zien-zan, Chinese Police Constable 464, was yesterday sentenced in the Mixed Court, before Mr. Jacobs, American Assessor, and Magistrate Loh, to two years' imprisonment for thefts of two bicycles. The case first came before the Court August 14, when Kau was found guilty and remanded for sentence. The constable was attached to Gordon Road Station.

The first complainant against Kau was Yuen Pau-kung, of 84 Annam Road. A constable had come to his shop August 6 and gotten a bicycle, stating it was for the use of the Police Station. The following day it had not been returned, and Yuen went to the Station to see about it. The number of the constable, however, he gave as 469, which belongs to a constable connected with the North Szechuen Road Station who was on duty very shortly after the bicycle had been taken. One of the shop employees, also, had stated that he saw the number 469 on the constable's tunic, which he carried on his arm when he entered the shop. A week later, however, another bicycle shop keeper informed Yuen that a man had offered him a bicycle of Yuen's for sale, and Kau was located, together with the bicycle. Kau said he had bought the bicycle from another constable, 469, and denied the theft. He was tried at the Mixed Court August 14, however, and found guilty, being remanded until yesterday for sentence.

In the meantime, another charge had been placed against Kau, that of having hired a bicycle at 571 Carter Road, giving his number as 914 and failed to return it. Kau it appears, when questioned by the police told them where the bicycle was, and the vehicle was recovered from a pawnshop in the Sinza District where he had pawned it, and given his number as 944.

On August 13, while Kau was on remand, the case of a third bicycle came up, though the circumstances were different. Kau's father brought a coolie named Lee to the police station who he said had admitted stealing the first bicycle and turning it over to Kau. The man however, told the Police that it was July 3 that he had sold a bicycle to Kau, the constable promising him $25 and paying him only $20 and when he went around again to try to get the balance Kau's father accused him of being the cause of young Kau's difficulties. Lee said he had purchased the bicycle from a man named Sung, but did not know where the man could be located, and had no papers in connection with the purchase.

Kau, in Court yesterday, persisted in his innocence, accusing another constable of having gotten the bicycle and turned it over to him. His guilt was considered sufficiently established, however, and he was finally sentenced to two years' imprisonment. The unfortunate Lee was sentenced to six months.
